DERIVED	Expense-to-income rose from 81.7% to 100.4%; net cash flow negative in May (−₹8,340) and June (−₹10,640).
FACT	New HDFC personal loan ₹3,00,000 disbursed 18-Apr; ₹2,40,000 paid out two days later (home furnishing).
FACT	ACH auto-loan EMI returned unpaid on 05-May (insufficient funds); re-presented and cleared 08-May.
AI	Pattern is consistent with higher committed outflows after the April loan rather than income stress. June close of ₹5,510 in the salary account puts the 05-Jul EMI at risk unless funds move from HDFC.
INVESTIGATE	Confirm purpose of the ₹2.40 L payment and whether the HDFC balance (₹3.17 L) is available for servicing.

AI The May return happened two days after rent left the salary account and before salary landed on 6 May. It reads as a timing mismatch, not inability to pay — the auto-loan mandate still debits the salary account on the 5th, so the same gap recurs whenever salary arrives late. The PL EMI debits HDFC, which is well funded.

DATA & DESIGN NOTES

Arjun's 124 transactions are generated once and every figure is computed from them: income, balances, FOIR (15.4%), expense-to-income, low-balance days and the 05-May returned EMI all tie across screens.

Meridian's corporate figures share one monthly counterparty dataset: ₹156.40 cr receipts proxy, 73.7% top-3 concentration, net operating +₹3.45 cr, OD 47.7% at June against a ₹12.00 cr verified limit. The missing April SBI statement shows as Not Available everywhere.

Same design system as the Financial Statement Analyzer. Screens are static renders; drawers and filters are shown in one state. Fact / derived / AI / investigate labels and the six confidence dimensions are kept separate throughout.
